Drawings

The drawings are objected to because proper cross-hatching, described in the Description of the Drawings, is not illustrated. For example, figure 1 is described as "section view", but lacks cross-hatching.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vallet (4791986).

Vallet discloses a one-trip method of tensioning and sealing a tubular string 14 to a wellhead 10 comprising concurrently running the string and a seal 24 into the wellhead 10; securing the string downhole, via packer 16, with respect to wellhead 10; pulling a tensile force before positioning the seal (via hook 42 to move seal 24 into alignment with pin 36) after securing, with packer 16, with respect to wellhead 10; and advancing the seal after pulling of the tensile force (col. 3, lines 54-64) using a mechanical force (pulling on hook 42 requires a mechanical force).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vallet in view of Wilkins (61422330).

Vallet discloses the invention substantially as claimed, noting mechanically advancing the seal, but not using a hydraulic piston to advance the seal

Wilkins presents a hydraulic piston 23 to advance a seal in TRT 2.

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to advance the Vallet assembly using a hydraulic piston, as presented by Wilkins, since hydraulic pistons are well known mechanical devices utilized in well completion methods.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see page 8, filed 16 August 2006, with respect to claims 1, 10, 13, 15, and 16 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The 35 U.S.C. 102 rejection of claims 1, 10, 13, 15, and 16 has been withdrawn.

The examiner contends the arguments are more detailed than claim 22. Vallet is still considered to meet the limitation of this claim since the method moves the seal with respect to the wellhead 10, the wellhead being stationary.

With regards to claim 12, Vallet's pull on hook 42 is still considered a mechanical force applied to the seal for advancing.

Upon further review, claim 21 is now rejected in view of Wilkins. Since the claim does not specifically locate the hydraulic piston, substituting this hydraulic piston in Vallet is considered obvious. The examiner apologizes for not advancing prosecution of this claim.

Allowable Subject Matter
